ALPINE VETERINARY CLINIC

I have used the product called OIL SORB on oiled animals and have found it to be a wonderful compound to clean the oil from their bodies. It appears to not cause any irritation to the skin or respiratory system, The product completely cleaned all areas of their bodies.

I have also taken oil in a container of water and watched the action of this compound in absorbing the oil. It is very dramatic, I also used it to remove oil from rocks around the back of my clinic and it did a very good job of removing the oil residue from these rocks.

I am a trained scientist who is not easily impressed by many things, However, I am impressed by the action of Oilsorb and after reading the literature on this product and learning that it has been used successfully in other countries and their oil spills.

I am appalled that our state officials and wildlife officials did not make EXXON try this material immediately as I feel it would have prevented much damage and death to our wildlife and the environment.

I would hope that someone will now make the decision to use this product to clean some of the wildlife presently being caught and also to start using it to clean the beaches
